IMAGE CONSENT FORM and USE OF TWITTER

Dear Parents/Carers,

We often like to take pictures of the children at school to celebrate a variety of activities. All photographs and images which include children will be to support the children's learning, celebrate their achievements or show the exciting things that happen within the children's time at school. We may use these images:

- in our school prospectus, in other printed publications that we produce such as newsletter
- in classroom/corridor displays
- on our website
- on the school secure Twitter page

We may also make videos for our school website.

We also have whole class and individual photo's taken by an external company on an annual basis. These photo's are only available in print form and will be ordered by you directly to the external company, on line.

Cheadle Catholic infant School has a Twitter page.

In order to keep our children safe, both at school and online, we have a set of Twitter rules which we all follow.

To comply with the Data Protection Act 1998, we need your permission before we publish photographs or make any recordings of your children.

2. The images we take will be of activities that show the school and children in a positive light. We may use group or class photographs or footage. Children will NOT be individually named.
